Welling News

Mr. Vaughn Taylor, spending his summer in and around Toronto, reports some interesting experiences. Home over week-end, he gave a talk in Church. One thing he mentioned was the down pour of rain when Hurricane Hazel passed over Toronto. It left three inches in short time. A group chartered a bus and visited the Pageant at the Hill Cumorah, and other points of interest.

He also met Missionary Hal Chipman, who had been selected to assist with the Pageant.

Mrs. Elsie Chipman has been selected as the new Co-ordinator of Junior Sunday School. She succeeded Maline Wilde who has held the position for four and a half years.

Linda Jane Wilde, daughter of the Kenneth Wilde is in the Municipal Hospital for a tonsillectomy.

Mrs. Fanny Nelson is working in Lethbridge at the El Rancho Cafe.

Mrs. Douglas Christensen (nee Jean Mehew) is in the Municipal Hospital at Lethbridge with a new baby boy. Good luck Jean, hope you'll soon be home.

Members of the out-going Bishopric of the Raymond Third Ward were feted at a Banquet and Program when about 400 loyal ward members came out to do their honor.

The long banquet tables were beautiful with their flower decorations and the bountiful supper prepared by ladies of the Third Ward and served by members of the Second Ward Relief Society, was enjoyed by young and old alike.

The retiring members President Rulon Dahl, former Bishop, and Elder Dan Halladay, former Ward Clerk and their families, were served supper by the acting Bishopric - Robert Salmon, Paul Fairbanks and James Henninger.

Between table settings, colored slides of New Zealand and Argentina were shown by the Hancock boys.

The time was then given to Irene Cooper, who very capably reviewed the book "Yellow Magic" by J. D. Ratcliff. This is the first comprehensive story of the greatest medical discovery of the age - The Story of Penicillin - the Magic Yellow Powder.

A delicious lunch was then served by Inga Shields and assistant hostess, Opal Wiggill. Special guests were Dorothy Strong and May Tolstrup.

Virginia City Players Score Hit With Melodrama

A crowd of over 200 people were present at the Opera House on Friday, November fourth, to enjoy Lillian Mortimer's nineteenth century melodrama "No Mother To Guide Her," presented by the renowned Virginia City Players of Virginia City, Montana.

For two hours those present chuckled and laughed and thoroughly enjoyed themselves as the villain did villainous deeds and the hero and heroine were helped out of dangerous positions by the little orphan girl. The villain was rewarded for his dastardly deeds by hissing from the audience, which only seemed to make him do even worse things.

In the end right triumphed - the hero and heroine, with their baby, were re-united, the cruel John Livingstone was sent to prison and all others in the play got their just rewards.

Following the play the members of the troupe presented a half hour of old-time vaudeville with the past century bathing beauties presented as the finale for a very enjoyable evening.

The Raymond Rotary Club sponsored the show here with the proceeds going for Community Service. The Club expresses its appreciation to all those supporting this venture and looks forward to providing another evening of the same enjoyable entertainment by this group next year.

World's Largest Passion Play To Be Presented In Lethbridge

JOSEF MEIER

Tons of scenery will be used for the staging of the world-famous Black Hills Passion Play here at the Collegiate Auditorium, November 18-19-21-22-23. The Twenty-two soul-stirring scenes, Biblically and historically correct, necessitate professional handling by a crew skilled in the staging of historical events which occurred 2,000 years ago. One of the most amazing features is the manner in which modern day methods and equipment are employed to create settings which radiate all of the old-world artistry and atmosphere of "the greatest story ever told."

Josef Meier, internationally known Christus portrayer, is both producer and director of the Black Hills Passion Play. Mr. Meier has preserved the ancient beauty and splendor of the age old story of the Cross and heightened its dramatic power through the skillful use of the modern equipment. The two and one half hour production flows smoothly without pauses between scenes. This is accomplished through the effective use of a stage within a stage; while one scene is presented, another is being readied.

Highlights of the twenty-two scenes are: The Triumphal Entry, which takes place in the early morning hours of Palm Sunday. The lighting, costumes, and scenery all blend together to create a typical street scene of 2,000 years ago. The Farewell at Bethany: The Last Supper: The Court of King Herod with its beauty and lavishness; Pilate's Palace, differing greatly from the Egyptian Splendor of Herod's court, with its regal Roman atmosphere; The Crucifixion Scene which takes place on the Mount of Golgotha is created by the use of elevated platforms upon which three crosses are mounted, and coupled with amber lighting effects and a background of gathering storm clouds, it creates an ominous mood of impending tragedy.

In order to facilitate the lightning-like changes of scenery that take place several elevated platforms are used and a second arch is erected. Every bit of available space, from the front curtain of the stage to the back wall, is utilized by the Black Hills Passion Play production. The company carries its own electrical control board and a large amount of special equipment which is set up and used to create the lighting effects which are described as being the most beautiful in the world. The members of the Black Hills Passion Play travel in a fleet of cars while several large vans transport the tons of scenery and properties, lighting effect, trunks of costumes, and also the livestock, which consists of camels and donkeys. In addition, the company carries its own organ used for the background music and special sound effects.

The music which forms the background for the play is a carefully chosen ensemble which complements the theme of the story perfectly. It includes the works of some of the greatest composers such as Wagner, Mozart, Handel, Frack, Back, and Gounod.

The Black Hills Passion Play is being sponsored by the A.O.T.S. (As One That Serves) of Southminster United Church. General Chairman F. G. Holberton has as his committee:

Armistice Day Marked

November 11th, 1955 was a very cold, bitter day, much like many before it when the citizens of this country had gathered to pay tribute to the fallen soldiers of world conflicts.

Just before eleven o'clock in the morning about one hundred people met in the Council Room of the Town Hall to hear an inspiring program arranged by the local Legion. Robert Salmon, Padre of the Legion, conducted the service and offered the opening prayer.

Mayor Frank R. Taylor gave a very interesting address which we print here:

We have met here today to commemorate a day hallowed in the memory of a former generation as Armistice Day - this is now designated as Memorial Day. Thirty-seven years ago today the free people of the allied nations celebrated joyously and hilariously a day that symbolized what was that would be a day to end all wars. This day found many old timers long since gone in the trenches of France and of Belgium with their eyes to the east and to the skies and their ears cocked to see if the holocaust of four years of devastating war would really end at eleven a. m. on November 11, 1918.

Being one of those eager watchers I with thousands of others stood by in the woods of the Em Dem Forest in Eastern France and watched and heard the turmoil of battle die away. Guns were silenced - aeroplanes and observer balloons were taken from the air by various means and even to the extent of wanton destruction as they were presumed to be no longer of value.

At home in France-England-Canada and the U. S. A. multitudes of people celebrated the end of the war to end all wars.

Realism has come home to us since then from the bitter experience of World War 1 into almost insignificance in loss of human life and wanton destruction.

Peace we have with us now for which we are sincerely appreciative and thankful. We must cherish peace and educate our thinking toward living at peace with our fellowmen - nevertheless men and nations still nurture the sword of conquest so only in and by a realistic attitude can we assure peace. In strength only can we be assured of peace. We must first and always maintain freedom and Liberty at the cost of being strong. Strong in the will to do right and strong in the will to demand justice, and freedom from those who would dominate and oppress.

Emerson Writes:

The foe long since in silence slept, alike the conqueror silent sleeps.

And time the ruined bridge has swept down the dark stream which sears and creeps

On this green bank by this soft stream we set today a votive stone

That memory may their dead redeem, when like our sires, our sons are gone.

Longfellow Says:

Not in the clamour of the crowded street

Not in the shouts and plaudits of the throng, but in ourselves are triumph and defeat.

So as once more we pay tribute to the memory of those who paid the supreme sacrifice and to those who only have their memories - We say as the great leader put it - So I said to the man who stood at the gate of the year - "Give me a light that I may tread safely into the unknown." "Put your hand into the hand of God" - he replied "And your way shall be safer than the lighted path."

May we cherish the memory of those who gave their all and keep peace in our hearts always - and in behalf of the Town Officials we thank those groups who each year continue to keep loyalty, patriotism and memory before us.

Following Mayor Taylor, Ted Wagstaff, on behalf of the Legion thanked those present for coming and expressed the hope that the boys and girls would never have the experience of going to war.

T. George Wood spoke very touchingly on real life drama in wartime, telling the story of the many men in the R. C. A. F. who were

Touring The Town With Amy

- Amy Campbell

Hello shoppers! Have November's gusty winds and snowflurries sent you preparing for winter? If so, let's see what the stores can do to help.

Mothers! When the snow is blowing and the cold north wind whistles at your door, be sure your children are snug in their beds, wearing warm flannelette pajamas. The cozy colors of orange and aqua polkadotted with white and the long sleeves with the ruffled cuffs will delight youngsters. The Broadway offers them in sizes 8 to 14 at only $3.95 a pair.

T.V. - something we're all interested in, since there are already 3 sets in Raymond. If you've seen the handsome models on display in Stones you'll be thinking about one too. Of striking wood-grained finishes - mahogany, walnut and limed oak, these television sets offer beauty as well as quality performance. The Arlen model, only one of the many RCA Victor models, is tops in versatility. The swivel base enables you to turn the picture and the sound to face you, no matter where you sit. When you're enjoying T. V. you're really living!

Men! Please don't let your wives freeze their fingers hanging out the washing this winter. Give her one of the best presents a woman can get - a beautiful Bendix Duomatic Washer and Dryer Combination. Stop into Fromms and see the brilliant porcelain enamel machine that will wash clothes bright, white and clean, triple rinse them and bring them forth completely dry, all in one operation. Wonderful, isn't it?

Old Man Winter won't keep youngsters indoors this winter - not if they're bundled into one of the warm snowsuits on display in the Merc.

"O My Father" was sung by the choir and President J. Golden Snow spoke of the reward of living a good life, that families will be reunited hereafter and will continue on together. Jeanine Jensen then sang the beautiful "Lord's Prayer" accompanied at the piano by Emma Dahl. The closing remarks were made by Bishop West after which the choir sang "Sometime We'll Understand." The benediction was given by Mr. L. Carter dedicated the grave. Pallbearers were: Ted and Henry Walburger, Lloyd Williams, Vern Jenks, Don Greninger, and Earnie Dalton, all of Del Bonita. The Del Bonita ladies were in charge of the flowers.

Friends of Marilyn Veen will be glad to know she is returning home after a six month period in a Calgary Hospital where she has been undergoing treatment for curvature of the spine, result of a case of polio.

Marilyn underwent two major operations, which were successful.

Though being confined to bed and having to endure the discomfort of a heavy plaster-paris cast Marilyn has been happy and cheerful throughout the long period of waiting. Though was able to keep up with some of her grade twelve studies, Marilyn has been looking forward to the time when she would be able to return home, meet her friends and go to school once again.

Her mother has been very faithful in visiting Marilyn and will be glad to have her home when Marilyn will soon be able to go to school and take part in the normal active life of a happy, healthful girl.

While in Provo, Utah Mrs. Jack Kenny attended the B. Y. U. home-coming parade. This is held each fall and is an outstanding event.

Among the many colorful floats were two, representing Canada. One was depicting how Americans expect to see Canadians.

Some were dressed in burlap sacks, some in Hudson's Bay Blankets and some dressed as painted Indians.

The second float was made up of two mounted police, — beautiful Canadian furs and Hudson Bay Blankets.

While in Utah Mrs. Kenny visited in Salt Lake City and in Idaho Falls, Idaho where her daughter Geraldine is working as receptionist for Dr. Maurice Henninger, a former Raymond resident.

Robert Louis Stevenson had a remarkable power of attracting people to himself by the very magnetism of his personality, as well as the kindness of his behaviour. One day, when the cook was away, Stevenson told another servant, Sosimo, just to bring him a little bread and cheese for lunch to his writing room. But to his surprise he was served an excellent meal, an omelet, a good salad, and perfect coffee.

"Who cooked this?" asked Stevenson.

"I did," said Sosimo.
"Well, then, great is your wisdom."
Sosimo bowed and humbly corrected him saying, "Great is my love."

NOVEMBER 16th IS JUBILEE DAY

The co-operation of Alberta farmers will determine the success of this very important Farmers' Union membership drive. The issue is squarely up to the farmers to take this opportunity to build a strong Farmer's Union.

U.F.A. Co-op, organized by farmers to serve farmers in the farm supply field, is keenly interested in the development of a strong Farmers' organization. To get a fair deal for agriculture it is essential to have a farm organization with a membership representing the majority of the Farmers of Alberta.

U.F.A. Co-op strongly urges all its members to play a part in Jubilee Day. Join the Farmers' Union of Alberta. Get your neighbors to join.

HISTORICAL TALK BY MRS. KING (Continued from last week)

They meet at ten o'clock once a week to learn how to cook and sew etc. One day after dinner was over and we had quilted for two hours the meeting was turned into a testimony service. I remember every one of those Indian ladies arose and bore such a humble testimony.

Helen Smith was the President of the association, (she is now the bishop's wife, her husband was sustained bishop while we were there, which made him the second Indian Bishop in the Church) she arose and I shall never forget her testimony. She thanked us for coming out and said they were always glad to mingle with the white sisters. She said she longed to be like us and she knew they would someday be a white and delightful people as they had been promised they would be, but she said, "I wonder how long we will have to wait." Then she said, "Sometimes I think we are being punished more than we can bear" then she told us this story, she said when her little boy came home from school one day crying she asked him what was the matter, and he said "the teacher sent me home," I said what for? he told me the teacher said "You stink, go on home" she cried like her heart would break while she was telling it. She went on to say that was not so, because she had bathed him and put on every stitch of clean clothing on him. She said, "Just because our skin is dark is no sign we are dirty". Well, that little story made me realize a little more than I did before what those Lamanite sisters were going thru.

One sister said her husband was not very religious and objected to her going to Relief Society. One day she said she made a large pan of hot buns and when her husband sat down to dinner he said, "What are those things?" she said they are buns. "Where did you learn to do that?" "At Relief Society" she said. "Well if that is what they do in Relief Society you just keep on going" So she said she reached her man thru his stomach. Another one told about paying the last five dollars she had in the house for tithing. She said she went to Sacrament meeting and they talked on tithing and she felt a strong desire to pay tithing but her husband said they couldn't afford too. The children said they needed books etc., but she went to the Bishop and gave him that five dollars anyway and the next day her father came in and said "Here is five dollars, I know how hard it is for you to make ends meet and I made a little extra this week and want to give it to you".

"There, I told you the Lord would bless us if we would pay our tithing she told her children and husband but she said don't expect him to hand back the money everytime, he won't, but we will be blessed in good health so we will not have to go to the Dr. etc.

Anthony Henday was a tough and black-bearded Englishman from the Isle of Wight, and at one time a smuggler.

It was on September 11th, 1754—more than two hundred years ago—the first white man strode across Alberta's east boundary.

Anthony's first impression was "level lands, few woods, and plenty of good water". He was amazed when he first set foot on the great plains of Alberta to see Indians hunting buffalo on horse back. He had been here but a few days when he made companions of some of the young Indians and went Buffalo hunting with them.

All were equipped with bows and arrows. In his diary he said the Indians lodged 20 arrows in one beast and would take the arrows out while the buffalo was floundering around with pain.

Henday was employed by the Hudson's Bay Company. He attempted to persuade the Indians to take their furs and go to the Hudson's Bay Company but the Indians were happy where they were and would not risk the trip. With winter coming on Henday married a Cree, despite strict orders from the Hudson's Bay Company that none of their employees was to "harbor or entertain any Indian woman."

Like his Indian companions, he needed a squaw to carry his goods, prepare his food, make his moccasins and other clothing, and the girl he chose appears to have been a good wife to him. He often turned to her for advice, when unsure of how to deal with certain Indians. His main object was to make friends with the Blackfoot and to acquire more pelts for the company he served.

Metal used in making every Victoria Cross, Britain's highest military decoration, comes from the guns captured in the Crimean war.

He was received into their camp and was conducted down the long avenue between 322 huge snowy-white teepees.

The chiefs of the Blackfoot did not want to make the four months canoe trip to Hudson Bay to trade their pelts for Hudson's Bay goods. The Chief said his natives often starved while on that journey. He said his men could not get along without buffalo meat.

Henday was the first white man to gaze upon the snowy white peaks of the Rocky Mountains.

Two centuries after his coming to Canada unveiled a cairn in commemoration of this tough and courageous explorer.

The Hudson's Bay Company was sending scouts in search of furs and at the same time other trades were doing the same thing, finally the H. B. Co. and the North West Company amalgamated and they sent Peter Pond into the North West in the fall of 1778.

He took four heavily laden canoes and paddled into the Athabasca country. On Lake Athabasca he built his first trading post. He was so successful that first year that he could not freight back all his furs he had so many.

Pond had a very bad temper and at one time he got in a dispute with another fellow and shot him in the thigh, the man died later and after two years Pond was acquitted.

Pond explored vast areas between Lake Athabasca and the Saskatchewan River. Pond made maps and kept an account of his discoveries but they were not preserved and taken care of, in fact one of his descendants was using these papers to light the kitchen fire when they were discovered.

Alexander Mackenzie, the ablest of all the North West Company's explorers, took over where Pond left off. He was fascinated by the Peace River country he said, "It was a succession of the most beautiful scenery I have ever seen. There are groves of poplars in every shape. There are vast herds of elk and buffalo, the elk choosing the uplands and the buffalo the plains. He said, "the trees that bear a blossom were advancing fast to that delightful appearance which no expression of mine are qualified to describe."

He saw the summits of the Rocky Mountains covered with snow. In spite of the hardships he saw beauty too. But for most part those pioneering explorers went thru untold hardships and suffering. They fought their way thru hundreds of miles of forests and crags. They endured starvation, exhaustion, mosquitoes, uncertainty hostile natives and discouragement and still they did not turn back.

It is said Alexandra Mackenzie died a poor forgotten man, yet no other explorer, Canadian or American has greater achievements to his credit.

David Thompson was an unselfish man who felt for instance that the use of rum in the fur trade was both unnecessary and harmful to the Indians. Once while working into the mountains he was ordered to take along two casks of rum with his other trade goods. He did so but packed them on his meanest horse, with the result that they were broken against the rocks and tree trunks along the trail.

He said he would do the same to every keg of alcohol.

He worked for six more years and no attempt was made to introduce liquor. Much more could be said of the courageous explorers but read it in the Alberta Anthology.

Mrs. King also read an article in the "Alberta Calls" magazine on the Indians of the Blood Reserve. She had seen an article in the Lethbridge Herald captioned, "Indian Girl Writes Story of Her Race." Written by Miss Agness Shade or Poke-Ko-Ki which is her Indian name. Mrs. King wrote to Miss Shade asking for a copy of the article she had written. Miss Shade complied with the request graciously. She tells about her people in Alberta. She traced the progress of the Indian from the early days of the first white people to conditions of today. In conclusion she states: the Indian people encouragement, "The biggest thing today is to give help and opportunity. White people must also adjust themselves to the idea of meeting Indian people in business and professions and must learn to understand the Indians."

"AN APPLE A DAY . . ."

23rd - For another apple treat try glazed apples. Make a syrup of one and a half cups of sugar and two cups of water, core six large cooking apples and pare about one and one-half inches down from the stem end. Place them in the syrup with the pared surface down and simmer for five minutes. Invert and cook until tender - about 10 to 15 minutes. When tender, place under the broiler and bake apples frequently with the syrup until they are well glazed.

24th - For a change serve stewed apples with custard sauce or add them to a Blanc Mange or Tapioca Cream.

25th - Start dinner off with this easy and inexpensive appetizer - apple slices spread withippy cheese or peanut butter.

26th - After a heavy meal what could be better than a whole crisp, juicy apple eaten out of hand or served with a fruit knife.

27th - Be sure to put some apple chutney or relish on the dinner table. It is so good with meat.

28th - For lunch dress up a fruit salad plate with plenty of rosy red apple wedges. Do cut the apples at the last minute because some darken very quickly.

29th - No matter which you choose - fresh, canned, dried or frozen be sure to serve apples in some form at least once a day.

30th - And now let us pause and drink to this most versatile of fruits. For the toast what could be more suitable than spicy hot apple juice. Simply add a dash of vinegar, a few cloves, a stick of cinnamon and sweeten the juice to taste. Bring to the boil, strain and serve hot.

News From Your District Home Economist

Elizabeth M. Bartman,
Lethbridge

It's time to bake your Christmas cakes! Yes sir-ee, cakes made rich with fruit and nuts ripen all mellow and good with aging, so by making them now Father Time will be your assistant. This applies, of course, to rich dark fruit cakes, white fruit cakes or those with lesser amount of fruit should be made closer to Xmas.

Although dried fruits do not usually mold, it is wise to destroy any mold spores which may be present. Scald seedless raisins and currants by letting them stand in boiling water a minute, then drain and spread on absorbent paper or cloth to remove excess moisture.

To sort those currants, wash in a goodly amount of water and any which should be removed will rise to the top.

If your recipe calls for mincemeat be certain that it is not too moist. Commercial mincemeats are sometimes quite juicy. Drain off the juice and use it as part of the liquid called for in the recipe.

To be certain that the fruit and nuts do not sink to the bottom of the cake, dredge them well with some of the flour required in the recipe. Do not use additional flour since this will make your cake dry.

Should the glaze or candied fruits be dried out from standing you may soften them by placing them in a sieve and steaming over boiling water.

Citron peel and almonds are nice cut into slivers and placed on the batter in layers, as the batter is put into the pans.

Grease cake tins and line with four layers of heavy waxed paper or three layers of brown paper. Grease again. Fill the prepared pans about two-thirds full.

Did you ever hear of baking your cakes in candied grapefruit shells? Sounds delicious doesn't it? I have the recipe if you would like to try it. 'Twould be a fancy finish for a gift cake.

Always bake the cake in a slow oven 275-300 degrees F. Some people like to steam large rich fruit cakes before baking. The steaming process may produce a rather pudding-like texture.

A friend brushes her cakes lightly with milk before popping them into the oven. Her reason is to prevent the raisins and other fruit protruding from the batter from becoming burnt and dried.

If your oven has a tendency to burn foods on the bottom, place the cake tin on a cookie sheet which has been covered with a layer of salt.

After removing the cake from the oven, invert it on a wire cake cooler for a few minutes before removing the tin. Then lift off tin and allow the cake to become quite cool before storing away in a scalded, closely covered container in a cool place. A scoop of brown sugar, an apple or an orange half will help keep it moist.

You might like to try our Department's Christmas cakes, mincemeat and puddings, so write me for a copy of the recipes.

Having a party at your home? Dollies, place mats and coasters made from bright pieces of leftover wall-paper contrasting with your china design, will add an interesting note to the evening.

The Committee agreed to pay Gerald J. Gibb for leading the Raymond band while the regular leader was away to school.

The account of G. H. Baxter for repairing at Wrentham was approved. A Committee composed of D. R. Gundlock, G. W. Morton, D. B. Thomson and G. R. Metzger was appointed to inspect the suite being built in the basement of the Wrentham teacherage and investigate the cost of that work. If the cost is reasonably high the work at Masinasin is to be deferred.

It was decided that the Committee will contribute one-third towards the cost of curtains for the Warner school.

Messengers J. Snow and Ray Elliot of the Milk River Local Board met the Committee and requested that the County build a new high school at Milk River to accommodate grades 7 to 12 inclusively, with provision for shop, Home Economics and other auxiliary rooms.

It was decided to install a toilet and wash basin in the Warner teacherage.

The extra suite in the Warner teacherage will be made available to Mr. Davidson until the new teacherage is completed.

It was noted that the sewage disposal system at Wrentham is plugged. The Architect will be notified.

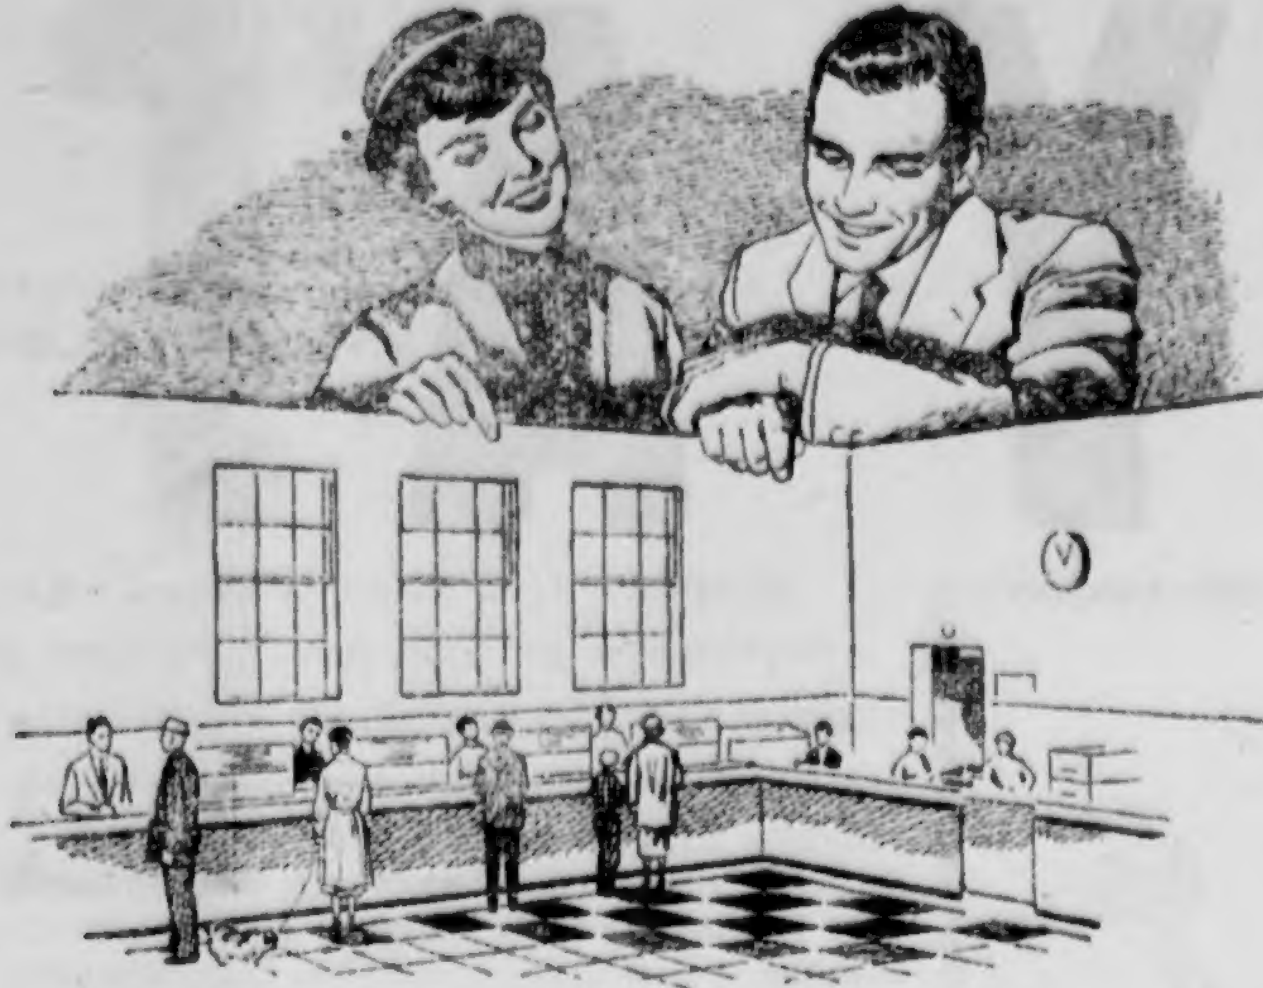

Mr. Kimmit reported that he was with a Committee which inspected the new Maximilite school at Hays.

Application for an adding machine at Raymond was tabled.

A number of tenders to purchase the school buildings which were advertised for sale were opened. They were referred to the Council.

It was agreed to sell the furnace in the old New Dayton school.

The Committee agreed to furnish the cement to build a sidewalk at the Milk River school if the Local Board will do the work.

The Raymond Second Ward Relief Society held their annual conference Sunday, November 6th. With President Nonavee Jones conducting the meeting and giving a warm welcome to all those in attendance.

The congregation, with the Singing Mothers, sang the opening song "Master The Tempest Is Raging."

Invocation by Herda Gehmlick.
Mildred Jensen, Secretary, was in charge of sustaining the officers and teachers of the R. S. of the Second Ward.

A very stirring song "Captain of Israel's Host" was sung by the chorus.

The theme of the conference was "Peace" with Zelda Woolley giving beautiful thoughts on "Peace In The Home."

A beautiful rendition by the chorus "O, Lord Be Merciful" was then heard.

"Peace In The World" was the topic treated very ably by May Tollestrup.

Bishop Alma Evans spoke of the work of the Relief Society and of the good influence it had been in his life.

Alice Powelson then gave the scripture reading which was followed by the Singing Mothers closing song "Peace I Leave With You."

Mrs. Jolayne Hill offered the closing prayer.

The music which was beautiful throughout the service was conducted by Gen Hawkins, with Dora Oler at the organ.

Mrs. Steele Brewerton of Magrath was the Stake's representative.

Mrs. Amassa Bullock and sons Calvin and De Var and daughter Connie, were dinner guests on Wednesday evening November 9th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Brown.

President J. Golden Snow paid tribute to the men and women who had fought in the war and expressed the hope that the spirit of peace would permeate the hearts of all men everywhere.

Flight Lt. Bill Mehew of the Air Cadet Squadron then explained the laying of the wreaths at the Cenotaph saying also that while the wreaths were in memory of the fallen in battle, they were also the means of livelihood for the many disabled veterans who made them.

At eleven o'clock Paul Redd played the "Last Post" from the Town Hall steps while those inside observed the two minute silence.

At the conclusion of the program the group went to the Cenotaph where the many wreaths and sprays were laid.

In the evening the veterans gathered at the Legion Hall for their annual supper. An account of this will be in our next issue.
